DIXIELAND

Gave Royal Welcome and Hospitality to Catholic Knights.

Kentucky Delegation Given Post of Honor in Social Events.

Archbishop Glennon Encourages Knights to Greater Efforts.

GREETING FROM BISHOP BYRNE

With the arrival Monday evening of the special from Louisville and Major Gen. Michael Reichert and his family, the crack uniform rank company, commanded by Capt. Oscar Maler, all Nashville became aware that the Tennessee capital, the birthplace of the order, had been captured by the Catholic Knights of America. Kentucky's delegates, Messrs. Thomas Gleason, of Covington, and Harry Veeman, of Louisville, together with Gen. Reichert and McGinn, were met at the depot by the Nashville reception committee, headed by State President J. A. Lancaster, who is a Kentuckian; State Secretary A. M. Oehmen, State Treasurer M. M. McCormack and Chairman Thomas Johnson, John Keegan, Jacob Meiers, M. J. McKee, Dr. M. McInerney, Neil O'Gara, James Carney, P. H. Walsh, James Laffey, Thomas J. Slattery, James Connors, John Gilmore, James Donnelly, P. A. McGovern, Bernard Rogers and George Ehemann. Forming in line and following the drum corps, a procession nearly three squares long wended its way to the Duncan House, where headquarters had been established. The Knights from Louisville presented a splendid military appearance, being greeted with cheers and shouts of "Here comes old Kentucky," and it goes without saying that they carried off the honors.

Tuesday morning, with the Papal colors and Stars and Stripes flying, the Knights from Kentucky had the post of honor in the short parade arranged for the Supreme officers, delegates, visitors and three local branches that preceded the Pontifical high mass at the pro-cathedral. The beautiful edifice was thronged when Archbishop Glennon, Bishop Byrne, the large number of assisting clergy and many altar boys entered and proceeded up the center aisle to the altar, from where Bishop Byrne expressed his great pleasure over the presence of His Grace Archbishop Glennon, the Supreme Spiritual Director, and extended a most cordial welcome to the Catholic Knights of America. In eloquent but impressive words Bishop Byrne told of the call of the founder of the order, James J. McLoughlin, upon Bishop Feenan and the inspiration received from him. The Catholic Knights of America, he said, had had their ups and downs and serious experiences, but they still flourish with thousands of members. Bishop Byrne then dwelt upon the work of the order, the payment of over $16,000,000 for the widows and orphans, the vast good done, the sorrows alleviated and the sunshine and happiness it had brought into the homes of the bereaved. He approved membership in the C. K. of A., not only as a sound business investment, but as a most worthy charity. In concluding the Bishop said it was an aid to Christian and Catholic spiritual life, to belong to such an organization, but members must practice the corporal as well as spiritual works of mercy.

After the gospel Archbishop Glennon expressed the pleasure it gave him to convey to the Catholic Knights of America the message from Cardinal Merry del Val, that the Holy Father confers his apostolic benediction upon the convention and all members of the Catholic Knights of America, a privilege which he appreciated. Archbishop Glennon then declared that the organization has been reformed and readjusted and has taken its place as a solvent and safe Catholic insurance society. The Knights had placed themselves on record and may now rightfully appeal for new members, who should be glad to share its blessings and responsibilities. Now that their affairs were conducted according to the best business principles, he was anxious to see the work so well begun continued. In his peroration Archbishop Glennon dwelt eloquently upon the higher and truer interests, what the title Catholic Knights suggested, paying beautiful tribute to the Southland and the Sliver of Charity. The past was a precious heritage, and with no boundary, no barrier, the Knights must first of all be the good citizens of America. It was their duty to be in the vanguard of the world's battle and advancement, standing for the Christian home and exhibiting Christian virtues.

Tuesday afternoon the Supreme officers, delegates and visiting Knights journeyed to the country, where prayers were recited and the grave of James McLoughlin was hidden from view beneath floral offerings.

The memorial address at the cemetery was delivered by Thomas A. Sloney, of Nashville, whose eloquent tribute to the founder of Catholic Knighthood brought tears to the eyes of all who heard him. It was a happy and hungry crowd of Knights that sat around the banquet table on Tuesday night. Hon. M. T. Bryan acted as the toastmaster, and after a blessing had been invoked on the feast by Rev. Father Gleason all fell to with a will. After the physical man had been satisfied Toastmaster Bryan read a telegram from Bishop Farrelly, of Cleveland, who sent his congratulations and regretted his inability to attend. Bishop Farrelly is a native of Tennessee and formerly lived in Nashville.

Oliver J. Timothy, of Nashville, responded to the toast, "Our Guests." He bade all welcome to Tennessee and to Nashville, the cradle of the Catholic Knights of America. He spoke of the obedience of the Knights to the laws of the church, the pleasure that he felt at seeing so many members of the order present, and said to him it was a renewal of his boyhood days in his native parish in Ireland. Dr. Felix Gaudin, of New Orleans, Supreme President of the order, responded to the address of welcome and paid tribute to the Uniform Rank, which he declared had made a showing that was a most agreeable surprise to all. He closed with a brief account of what the order had done, was doing and what it expected to do. He appealed to all to wield their influence to build up the order. Supreme Trustee Michael Quinn, of Brooklyn, N. Y., responded briefly when called upon and said he believed a new era was dawning for the order. He urged the older members to attend meetings regularly and to induce their sons to become members. Rev. Father P. J. Gleason, of Nashville, spoke of the work of the Knights in Nashville. Hubert F. Croghan, of Providence, R. I., responded to "Our Young Men." "The Apostolate of Laity" was the theme of the discourse of Anthony Matre, of St. Louis. Joseph Berning, of Cincinnati, toasted the "Ladies." Gen. Joseph P. McGinn, of Louisville, represented the military branch of the order. He made an appeal for increase in membership of the military branch, and stated that he was proud to be the associate of Mr. McLoughlin.

The lady visitors were shown points of interest in and around the Tennessee capital on Wednesday. A trip to the Hermitage, the home of President Andrew Jackson, was a feature of the entertainment of Thursday. In the evening visiting Knights and ladies were tendered a reception by Nashville Council, Knights of Columbus. The ladies devoted yesterday to sight-seeing.

HEROIC PRIEST

Scales Dizzy Height to Minister to Dying Man.

The funeral of Martin Wigginton, who died at Sts. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital Saturday night, took place from the residence of his father, C. J. Wigginton, 1246 South Sixteenth street, on Monday. The remains were taken to Stithson, Ky., for interment. Mr. Wigginton died as the result of injuries received in an accident at the Sunny Brook distillery, Twenty-eighth and Broadway, last Friday.

The young man was a structural iron-worker and was employed in anchoring a steel beam at a height of 100 feet. He lost his balance and fell a distance of thirty-two feet, alighting on a concrete floor. His injuries were seen to be of a serious nature. A doctor and a priest were hurriedly summoned. The Rev. Father Charles P. Raffo was one of the first men to reach the scene. He did not wait for the injured man to be brought down, but mounted two rickety ladders that had been hurriedly spliced together. Up, up he went, to a height of sixty feet, where he found the young man unconscious and in a dying condition. As he showed no signs of consciousness Father Raffo gave him conditional absolution and administered the sacrament of extreme unction.

Hundreds had assembled on the ground below and watched the priest as he scaled the perilous ladder, catching on a concrete floor. He knelt with bared head until Father Raffo finished the administration of the sacraments. By that time the members of the No. 4 Hook and Ladder Company had erected firmer ladders and Father Raffo descended in safety.

The injured man was wrapped in a blanket and lowered by ropes to the ground, where the ambulance was waiting. He was quickly removed to Sts. Mary's and Elizabeth's Hospital. Everything possible was done for him, but death came Saturday night. The deceased was regarded as a skilled structural ironworker and was well liked by all who knew him.

PRIEST GIVES BOYS STARS.

Rev. Samuel Kavanagh, pastor of St. Peter's church and a Director in the new bank at Libertytown, Md., last week presented each of his fifteen altar boys with a sum of money and went with them to the bank, where they deposited it. The gifts were starters for savings accounts. Parents would do well to follow the example of Father Kavanagh with their boys.

PRESENT A SURPRISE.

Rochester Knights of Columbus are the recipients of a windfall which caused them all to utter a heartfelt Deo gratias. Dr. J. J. A. Burke, of that city, has presented to the Knights his fine residence on East avenue to be used as a club house. The council hopes to occupy its new home May 15, when there will be a general jubilation in honor of the event.

THREE COMETS IN "AMONG THE STARS."

DELAYED

Temporarily Is the General Election by King Edward's Death.

United Irish Party Expects Home Rule Ere Long.

Tories Are Out of Funds and Liquor Men Are Sore.

KINDLY FEELING TOWARD KING

The sudden death of King Edward has changed the entire British political situation. Cabinet Ministers, many of whom were enjoying brief vacations on the Continent, hurried home on the announcement of the King's death. The fight over the veto power of the Lords necessarily has been postponed. The new King, George V., is credited with Tory tendencies, but his relations with the Liberal politicians always have been cordial and his recent conferences friendly; still he can not have the diplomatic experience and wide political insight of his father. The new King's sense of responsibility is sure to prevent any rupture with the present Government, though consciousness of his inexperience may add to the fighting attitude of the Tories over the veto.

In Ireland the helms in the late King's friendliness to home rule causes a more sympathetic feeling than for any other English monarch since the conquest. But the death of Edward VII. made no break in the activities of the various parties. The organization for the contingency of the general election goes on, and both sides already have perfected their plans. The Liberals have candidates for almost every seat, even the poorer classes from the polls. The Tories are less prepared, owing to the depletion of their funds and the realization that Lancashire, Yorkshire, Scotland and Wales will not tolerate any protectionist candidate.

Hon. T. P. O'Connor declares that the Irish party will be returned stronger than today, because several seats that were lost to the party at the last election will be won back at the coming campaign. Mid-Tyrone was lost in a three-cornered fight—that is to say by two Nationalist candidates running and a Tory slipping in between the two. That mistake will not be repeated and the seat will be reconquered. The Nationalists also hope to win South Dublin. The seat was lost last time because a snow storm kept many of the poorer classes from the polls.

There will be no compromise between the Liberals and the Tories on the veto resolutions. One was proposed on these lines: The Lords were to accept the destruction of their right to have a veto on the budget, and that in turn the Liberals should consent to drop the resolution which destroys the veto on legislation. The Liberal Government would not consider such a proposal at all. It would bring into revolt the entire Irish party, which regards the destruction of the legislative veto as much more important than the destruction of the financial veto, for it is the legislative veto that stands in the way of home rule.

The passage of the budget was another disaster to the Tories, because it fixes big and burdensome taxes on the liquor interests, and from those interests the Tories always received the bulk of their campaign fund. The liquor men will not put up money for the Tories, and without a big campaign fund the party is hopeless. On the other hand the Irish party is tolerably well supplied with money. The Irish in the United States have sent some and more has been sent from New Brunswick and Australia, while the Irish residing in England have raised $25,000 for the cause, the greatest amount they ever contributed.

Home rule seems delayed temporarily, but those well informed declare that the delay will be very brief. A period of mourning will follow King Edward's funeral, but it is the universal belief that a general election will take place before midsummer.

AMONG THE STARS

All Is in Readiness for Mackin's New Comet.

Everything is in readiness for the appearance of Aulyn Kanston's musical comet, "Among the Stars," at Macaulay's Theater on the nights of May 18, 19 and 20 and at the matinee on Saturday afternoon, May 21. An interesting feature in connection with the musical comet is that it will make its appearance on the same night as Halley's comet. Wednesday, May 18, Mackin Council, under whose auspices the opera is to be given, will furnish talent that will shine in this production, and the many friends of the organization will no doubt be on hand to witness the total eclipse of all other affairs of the kind by Mackin's stars.

Those taking the leading parts are Mrs. Esther Whedon Slater, Miss Abbie Chester and Miss Lana Lohr, and Messrs. Aulyn Kanston, Thomas D. Clines, Louis J. Kieffer, Patrick King, Charles Parsons and Carl Zang. In the chorus will be forty-two young people, twenty-one of the prettiest girls in Louisville and as many more stalwart young men.

The opera is in two parts. The first act deals with the last rehearsal; the second with the finished performance of a drama. The plot is well connected and the musical numbers are brilliant and catchy. The costumes will be a dream of artistic color.

Mackin Council is one of the foremost societies of young men in Louisville. Last month it surprised its club house to a bazaar for St. Cecilia's church. Mackin's help celebrate unless they have something good to offer. "Among the Stars" is a good offering. The young ladies who will appear in the chorus are Misses Louise Becker, Freda Doener, Kathryn Peeney, Rose Gans, Frances Gruber, Bertha Halting, Gertrude Howe, Julia Kaler, Rose Herbst, Alvina Kaler, Viola King, Louise Sigman Kieffer, Bessie and Leoda Loeffler, Josephine, Lottie Monroe, Marie O'Neil, Alice Sullivan, Virginia Taylor, Marie Welland and Evelyn Williams. The young men who will appear in the chorus are Tyler Charlton, Sherley Cluff, Tom Dignan, Tom Duddy, Martin Georges, Tom Gilligan, Edward Gruesser, Joseph Hancock, Charles Huebsch, George Kieffer, Louis Kress, John Morley, Lawrence Kieffer, Russell Muehr, Dennis McQue, James Muller, Earl Riley, Conrad Schaeffer, John Scully, John Sheehan and Joe Stewart.

DOMINICAN NUNS

Celebrated Their Twenty-fifth Anniversary in Boston Saturday.

Sister Alexia, formerly Miss Bridgie O'Sullivan, and Sister Mary Pius, formerly Miss Katie Kennedy, and both formerly of this city, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of entering the Dominican order last Saturday. The celebration was held in Boston, Mass., where the nuns are engaged in teaching school. High mass was the feature of the celebration, and the music of the mass was sung by former pupils of the nuns. Both jubilarians received many handsome presents from friends at home and admirers in Boston.

Sister Alexia is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy O'Sullivan, of Seventh and St. Catherine streets. Sister Mary Pius is a sister of Miss Fannie Kennedy, County President of the A. O. H. Before entering the convent Misses Kennedy and O'Sullivan were members of St. Louis Bertrand's congregation.

J. J. CAFFEY ELECTED.

The Particular Council of the St. Vincent de Paul Society met in St. Francis Hall Monday night. Seventeen conferences were represented. The Right Rev. Bishop O'Donoghue, Very Rev. Father James P. Cronin and other clergymen were present. J. J. Caffrey was elected President of the Particular Council and was empowered to select his subordinate officers. Mr. Caffrey is a progressive business man and a thorough Catholic. Under his guidance and with the spiritual guidance of Bishop O'Donoghue and the clergy, the St. Vincent de Paul Society is bound to flourish.

CHAPEL CAR

Approved by Pope and Gold Medal Bestowed Upon Rev. Dr. Kelley.

Apostolic Delegate to Philippines May Soon Come to Washington.

Names Submitted For Vacant American Sees to Be Guarded.

BUDGET OF GOSSIP FROM ROME

The Rev. Dr. Kelley, President of the Catholic Church extension Society of the United States, and Comendator Ambrose Petry, of the Executive Board of the same society, had a lengthy audience with Pope Pius X. on last Saturday.

The Pope showed that he has followed with the deepest interest the great work done by the society in the United States and Canada during the last four and a half years. He said that Cardinal Merry del Val, the Papal Secretary of State, has kept him informed on the subject; that Monsignor Agins, the Apostolic Delegate to the Philippines, had also spoken most highly of it, and that Monsignor Sbarretti, Apostolic Delegate to Canada, has taken a profound sympathetic interest in the work.

The Holy Father dwelt especially upon what the Church Extension Society has done for the church in the Philippines during the present trying situation there. In an autograph letter of considerable length the Pope blessed and encouraged the society to continue to enlarge its work. This letter, which will not be published until Dr. Kelley submits America, contains a strong appeal to the Archbishops, Bishops, priests and laity in the United States.

As a mark of special appreciation for the ministry work of the society, he presented Dr. Kelley with a valuable gold medal, marking his approval of the work of the chapel car in America, conferring a like honor on Comendator Petry. Monsignor Agins today left Naples for Manila. When he arrives he will solemnly promulgate the decrees of the Council of Manila, which he has approved during his stay in Rome. He will not remain for more than a year longer in the Philippines. It is believed by some that his future destination will be Washington.

Monsignor Sbarretti has had a long private audience with the Holy Father, and it is not improbable that he may not return to Canada. The Rev. William A. Murphy, of the diocese of Chicago, has just successfully passed the examination for the doctorate of divinity at the University of the Propaganda.

The Consistorial Congregation has issued a decree insisting upon absolute secrecy regarding the names submitted from America for vacant sees. Any priest violating this rule will be rendered incapable of voting in the future. Bishops are also bound to secrecy.

This step is taken to save candidates who are not named from the embarrassment that obviously follows.

MORE ORANGE BIGOTRY.

The bigots of Belfast University have not yet done with scholastic philosophy. Its principal opponent, Right Hon. Thomas Sinclair, having been elected Chairman of Convocation, proposed and carried a resolution against a separate lectureship or professorship in scholastic philosophy, or other recognition of denominationalism in the statutes of the university. The resolution does not bind the Senate, which has already sanctioned the scholastic course.

BUFFALO CHOSEN.

The urgent official invitation by the Mayor and City Council of Buffalo, the Chamber of Commerce, the Right Rev. Bishop Colton and leading citizens, that the United Irish League of America hold its approaching national convention in that city, has been accepted by National President Michael Ryan and his fellow officers. The convention is called for September 27 and 28, when John Redmond, Chairman of the Irish party, and T. P. O'Connor and Joseph Devlin will represent Nationalist Ireland. A significance will attach to this convention from the fact that it was in Buffalo that the first Land League convention met in 1881.

EUROPE'S GRIEF

Nearly Every Monarch United to Edward of England.

By the death of King Edward, of England, nearly every court of Europe is grieving, not merely because etiquette demands it, but because Edward was a kinsman by blood or marriage. Following are the connections of the late King with other royal houses:

Denmark—Edward's Queen, Alexandra, was the oldest daughter of Christian IX., the late King of Denmark. Frederick VIII., the present King, was Edward's brother-in-law. Germany—Kaiser Wilhelm II. is the son of Edward's eldest sister and was the dead King's nephew.

Russia—Czar Nicholas II. is the son of Queen Alexandra's sister Marie and the husband of the daughter of Edward's sister, Alice.

Spain—King Alfonso XIII. is the husband of Victoria Ena, the daughter of Edward's sister, Beatrice.

Greece—King George I. is a brother of Queen Alexandra.

Norway—King Haakon VII. is a son of Frederick VIII. of Denmark, brother of Queen Alexandra, and is married to his cousin, Maud, King Edward's daughter.

Sweden—King Oscar II.'s son is married to the daughter of Connaught, daughter of the King's brother, the Duke of Connaught.

Belgium—King Leopold II. is a nephew of the late Leopold II., who was an uncle of Victoria, King Edward's mother.

Holland—Queen Wilhelmina is related through King George III. Minor European rulers related to the late King by ties of blood or marriage are:

Saxe-Coburg and Gotha—Duke Leopold Charles Edward is a son of Edward's brother, Duke of Albany.

Waldeck—Princess Helene, sister of Duke Frederick, is the wife of Duke Leopold of Albany and Saxe-Coburg.

Wurtemberg—King William II. is related through the late Princess Mary, Duchess of Teck, cousin of Queen Victoria and mother of the new Queen of England.

PRAISES

For Catholic Institutions by Indiana School Officials.

Prof. Kendall, Superintendent of Schools of Indianapolis, and State Superintendent of Public Instruction Aley, both non-Catholics, are loud in their praises of the Catholic educational institutions conducted by the Franciscans at Oldenburg, Ind. The visit of the officials was with a view of recommending to the State Board of Education that the Academy of the Sacred Heart at Oldenburg be commissioned as a high school and that its certificates be recognized under the State Normal system. Upon his return Prof. Kendall said: "I may say that I was surprised and pleased beyond expression with what we found at the academy at Oldenburg. The conditions are ideal in the institution. The surroundings are beautiful and the scrupulous cleanliness, the splendid discipline and the general deportment impressed the State Superintendent and myself very much. We were shown all through by the Sisters and the curriculum of the school pleased us very much. I may say that I had no idea of the extent of the institution. They have a good system there and the Brothers are the highest commendation for their work. There are 150 girls in the school."

Superintendent Aley said that the day he spent inspecting the educational affairs of the Franciscans at Oldenburg was the most interesting day he has ever passed. The monastery in Franklin county is the center of a large Catholic population. It was founded in 1848, and it is said that more than $1,000,000 of property has been built and acquired by the monks, who maintain the institution themselves.

SUPERIOR GENERAL HERE.

The Rev. Brother John Chrysostom, of Bruges, Belgium, Superior General of the Xaverian Brothers, who came to the United States on a tour of inspection of the houses of the order, arrived in Louisville Tuesday and spent several days here. While in this city Brother Chrysostom was the guest of the Brothers at St. Xavier's College. He was accompanied to Louisville by the Rev. Brother Edward, of Manchester, England, and the Rev. Brother Isidore, of Baltimore. Superior General of the Xaverians in the United States. The visitors were joined here by the Rev. Brother Ambrose, of St. Mary's Industrial School, Baltimore, who was returning from London, Ky., where his venerable father is at the point of death. Brother Chrysostom was well pleased with the conditions prevailing at St. Xavier's College and St. Lawrence Institute. Before leaving he praised the work so successfully carried on by Rev. Brothers James and Pius.

C. K. OF A.

Held Seventeenth Supreme Convention at Nashville This Week.

Reports of Officers Show Order to Be in Splendid Shape.

Busy Business Sessions Will Close With Election Today.

HEARD ACTUARY'S FIGURES

Every available inch of room in the Senate chamber of the State Capitol at Nashville was occupied when the national convention of the Catholic Knights of America was opened at noon on Tuesday by State Secretary Oehman, who introduced Gov. Patterson amid tumultuous applause. The Governor said he felt the compliment paid him and was flattered by the reception accorded him. Gov. Patterson extended a most cordial welcome to all to the Capitol and the Volunteer State, but especially so to His Grace Archbishop Glennon, whose reputation for broad-mindedness and patriotism had preceded him to Tennessee. After referring to the Hermitage of Andrew Jackson and the hut of Andrew Johnson, who rose from the plain people to the Presidency of this great country; to the tomb of young Sam Davis and of President Polk, he called attention to Tennessee's schools, hospitals, colleges, commerce and everything that stands for advancement, and his royal welcome to a royal State evoked rounds of applause. Next Mr. M. Wells, representing the Mayor, welcomed the Catholic Knights, to whom all doors were open.

Hon. Daniel M. Burke, one of the two living founders of the order, representing the Nashville branches, in eloquent and touching words gave the history of the society, that comprises in every respect with the requirements of the church, recounting its struggles and great deeds to the present.

Supreme President Gaudin responded to the addresses of welcome, declaring the convention was being held in the home of its friends. Feelingly he acknowledged the kind expressions and generous treatment with which they were received, but lacked for words that would express his feelings of gratitude. Rev. Joseph Reising, of Nebraska, and James J. McLoughlin, of New Orleans, also responded, saying they would show their gratitude by renewing their pledge, thus remaining true Knights, true Catholics and true Americans.

Following the appointment of the Credentials Committee and announcement of the programme and order of business the convention adjourned till Wednesday morning, when the real work was begun.

On Wednesday morning the Supreme convention was opened with prayer by the Rev. Father Hillebrand, of Oregon. Following this came the reading of congratulatory letters and telegrams from Cardinal Gibbons, Monsignor Feronio, the Apostolic Delegate, and thirty-five other Archbishops and Bishops, the Right Rev. Denis O'Donoghue being one of the number. Reports of the Supreme officers were then submitted, after which the convention went into a lengthy executive session. The main feature of discussion was the proposal to increase the per capita tax, but the proposal was rejected. This closed the business for Wednesday.

Thursday was given over to hearing from Actuary Landis, one of the best known actuaries in the United States, and who has facts and figures on insurance at his finger ends. Friday was the real business day of the convention, and much time was spent in reading and discussing recommendations and reports of committees. Today will be spent in electing officers and winding up unfinished business. All reports show that the order is sound financially and increasing numerically. Next week the Kentucky Irish American will give a detailed report of the proceedings on Friday and Saturday.

UNWORTHY EDITOR SENTENCED.

The editor of Simplicissimus, a Gorman comic paper, has been arranged in court for publishing a grossly insulting caricature of the Catholic Bishop of Rotterdam. The Court sentenced the editor to two months in prison. The public prosecutor of the Criminal Court at Stuttgart affirmed the insult, the gravest that could be hurled at one commissioned to watch over the purity of morals. Protestants, he added, had been the first to report the matter to him and to demand prosecution.

FOR THE HOME GOING.

Judge and Mrs. Matt O'Doherty, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Scanlon and Miss Kate Lyons are among the Louisville people who will visit Ireland during the present season. Judge O'Doherty and his wife made the trip last year. Mr. and Mrs. Scanlon have visited Ireland several times, and Miss Kate Lyons spent several months in the "Green Isle" a few years ago.
